My disease baffed the power of all medicines, and in a short time I must have gone to my grave; but, thank God, my daughter in law would not rest until she went to your store, No. 10 North Second atreet, and related my case to you, purchased one bottle of your Pine Tree Tar Cordial, and I commenced to use it, and in one week I was much better; and after using three bottles I am perfectly well, a wonder to all my friends, for they all pronounced me past cure. Trouble Between the White and Begre Troops at Fort Esperansa.

The Negroes Refuse to Receive Their Pay and Consider Themselves Out of the Service,

By the arrival yesterday of the steamer Havans, Captain Greene, from New Orleans, we have interesting news

Our Texas Correspondence.

FORT ESPERANSA, Texas, April 9, 1864. We had rather an exciting time here day before yes terday with the colored troops garrisoning the fort, who consider themselves on a footing and equality with the white soldiers. A few days since, in an altercation between a negro and one of the latter, the former told him that they (the negro troops) were as good as the white nigger as good as a white man, hey? I'll show you whe ther he is or not." And, sulting the action to the words be would have seized his musket and shot the negro or the spot had not those around prevented him from doing

On the 31st of March one of this same colored regiment—First battalion, Fourteenth Rhode Island heavy ar-tillery—was in one of their officers' tents for the purpose of receiving orders; but, as they did not altogether suit him him out of the tent; but, the juegro still remaining, the former advanced towards him and pushed him, with the intention of facilitating his progress to the door. In an instant the negro seized a revolver which lay upon the table; but the next moment he lay upon the ground, with a bullet in his brain; for before he could raise his hand to shoot or strike the officer the latter drew another pistol from his side and shot him in the head. The negro was not dead at last accounts, though his recevery

And now the whole hattalion swore vengeance, and but for prompt action would have broken out into open mu tiny. They went about in squads, with savage looks, many refusing to do further duty, while others were urious, swaggering, swearing and threatening.

In the meantime the Sixteenth Ohio was ordered up, and a battery of artillery was stationed in direct range of their camp, with orders to open upon them at the slightest show of violence.

The Sixteenth Ohio took possession of the fort and the ris ners therein, the whole colored battalion having proviously received orders to assemble outside without arms. They were then furnished with one day's rations and marched down the coast four miles in a cold norther Charges and sentences, passed by court martial and ap-proved by the General commanding, were then read to them at guard mounting, and the whole affair probably ends by the sentencing of twelve or fourteen to ha labor, with ball and chain, for one year.

The morning that this difficulty occurred they stole and creted three barrels of whiskey while unloading the transport Clinton of her freight, and several refused to o bey the direct orders of their officers. And now I will o bey the direct orders of their officers. And now I will give you the history of this battalion of the Fourteenth Rhode Island heavy artillery.—

They are all free negroes, and were recruited with the understanding that they should receive the same pay and emoluments as the white troops. This was done for the purpose of p remaining as many negroes as possible to entist, and thus avoid the draft as much as possible. They were pitted in Rhode Island and petted in camp, and the consequence was that they held up their heads, made a fine appearance at dress parade, and gave promise of making good soldiers. But, alsa, they were poorly officered, and the case I have related is the only one in which prompt punishment was given for mutinous conduct or disobelience of orders. It was no unusual sight to see an officer attempting to soothe a quarrelsome negro by taking him on one side and talking mildly to him, instead of ordering him under arrest.

and talking mildly to him, instead of ordering nim ususe arrest.

And now, to sum up all, these free negroes have refused to receive their pay, and declare that they are not in the service, because the naymaster will not pay them more than the amount paid by Congress, and the same as the white soldiers. Heir officers told them that the State of Rhode island would make up the amount as agreed. This they piedged their honors upon. So the paymaster returned to this city without paying them off.

Everything is quite in Texas.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS.

Before City Judge A. D. Russel.

Frederick A. Conkiling, foreman; Francis H. Am

Judge Russel then delivered the following important charge to the Grand Jury, in which he clearly dedined the limit and extent of their powers:—

GENTIAMEN OF THE GRAND JURY—The judges holding the criminal courts in each county in the State, when a grand jury is empannelled and sworn, are required by law to call their attention to certain special enactments, such as the statute against lotteries, the statute against corton, the statute against lotteries, the statute protecting the purity of elections, the statute to suppress intemperance and to regulate the sale of intexicating liquors, and the Licket Passenger act. The violation of either of these acts is declared to be a misdemeanor, and, as such, is punishable by fine or imprisonment, or both, in the discretion of the Court. You have jurisdiction over all offences committed in this county, and also over offences committed in any other county in the State where the property, the proceeds of a felony, is found in this county. You can fix your own hours for meeting and adjournment; your foreman is empowered to excuse any of you from statendance without an application to the Court, and you can select one of your number to act as secretary to keep minutes of your proceedings, and at the close of your official term they are to be delivered to the District Attorney, to be kept by him as records in his office. It takes twelve of you to find an indictment, the like number to reconsider it after it has been found, and sixteen of you to form a quorum for the transaction of business. You have the legal right to originate, and can act upon such offences as are of public notoriety, and within your own knowledge, such as unisances, seditions, or such as shall be given you in charge by the Court or by the District Attorney; but in no other cases without a previous examination had before a magnistrate. This question as to the rights and duties of the Grand Jury and upon a communication being sent by them to the lower that State are similar in all respects to our own. In a ca

of convering to their own use public money, and asking that witnesses should be furnished them to enable them to examine the charge, Judge Kingyin a very able and elaborate decision, refused to permit the Grand Jury, on their own motion, to investigate the matter, and said, among other things, in appaking of their duties and rights—"Grand juries are high public functionaries, sianding between accuser and accused. They are the great security to the citizen against vindoitive prosession, eithereby government or political partisans, or by private enemies. In their independent action, the persecuted have found the most fearless protectors; and amongst the records of their doings are to be discovered the oblest stands against the oppression of power the viralence of mailes, and the intemperance of prejudice. These elevated functions do not comport with the position of receiving individual accusations from any source not preferred before them by the responsible public authorities, and not resting in their own cognizance sufficient to authorize a presentment. Nor should course give undvisedly aid or countenance to any such innovation. For if we are bound to send for persons and papers to making out of the responsible body against one citizen, we are bound to do so upon every charge, which every other grand jurer, present and future, following the precedent now sanctioned, may think proper hereafter to prefer. Our system of criminal administration is not subject to the reproach that there exists in it as irresponsible body with unlimited jurindiction. On the contrary, the duties of a grand jury in direct criminal accusations are confined to the investigation of matters given them in charge by the court, of those preferred before them by the Attorney General, and of those preferred before them by the Attorney General, and of those which are sufficiently within their own knowledge and observation to authorize an official presentment, and they cannot, on the application of any one, originate proceedings against citizens,
